

The National Open Art Competition 2010

An artist in your area has been short-listed for The National Open Art Exhibition 2010...

Michael Newton from Banbury has won The Towry Heart of England Prize for his painting Brian Damage is a large oil on canvas a haunting image, possibly memories of childhood family holidays? Romantic notion of travel? or a more melancholic depiction of the underclass of society?

The panel of judges headed up by Gavin Turk of YBA notoriety, and supported by

- Catherine Lampert former director of the Whitechapel Gallery London
- Lisa Wright NOACC2009 Winner and lecturer at University of Falmouth
- Francis Hodgson photographic critic for the Financial Times
- David Barrie our lay judge, were tasked with selecting works which show the diversity of the visual arts in 2010.

The exhibition at The Minerva Theatre Chichester Festival Theatre runs from October 30th – November 13th and will showcase 120 works.

Have your say.... Visit, View, and Vote for your favourite artwork in the Visitor's Choice Prize. Admission is FREE

All artworks are for sale and can be seen on the web site.

www.thenationalopenartcompetition.com

For more information and high resolution images please email louisa@thenationalopenartcompetition.com or call 07956 455 322